

ONBOARDING / LEADERSHIP

First 90 Days Leadership Scorecard

A structured way for boards and hiring leaders to assess a new executive's first 90 days, covering onboarding, stakeholder traction, and the early signals of long-term fit.

Days 1 to 30: orientation

- Has the executive built an accurate picture of the business and its risks?
- Are key relationships with board, peers, and team established?
- Is there a clear, shared understanding of the mandate and early priorities?

Days 31 to 60: traction

- Has the executive made credible early decisions and calls?
- Are stakeholders reporting confidence and momentum?
- Have any capability or fit concerns surfaced, and are they being addressed?

Days 61 to 90: direction

- Is a clear plan in place with measurable outcomes and owners?
- Has the executive begun to shape the team and operating rhythm?
- Are early results consistent with the success profile used to hire?

Signals to watch

- Quality of judgement under ambiguity and pressure.
- Ability to build trust across stakeholders quickly.
- Alignment between stated priorities and where time is actually spent.

Board action

- Confirm the 90-day review owner and format.
- Document strengths, watch-items, and support required.
- Agree the next checkpoint and any course corrections.

Working through this live? Talent Pathfinder partners advise boards, CEOs, and investors on the decisions in this brief. Request a confidential consultation at talentpathfinder.com/contact.